Biography

Albert S. Manly was born in Chicago on July 19, 1924. He grew up in Chicago and Washington D.C. He served in the U.S. Army during the Korean War, and graduated from Columbia University.

Manley worked in the insurance industry for ten years before moving to Portland in 1961. He was owner and fencing master at the Fencibles Salle in Portland, and was part-time fencing instructor at Reed College for more than 20 years (1963-1983). He also taught fencing at Portland State University, Mt. Hood Community College, and the Multnomah Athletic Club, and was a volunteer tutor for disadvantaged foster children. He published: Complete Fencing in 1979, and retired in 1983.

Albert S. Manley died in Portland, Oregon, on June 18, 1989.
